Ike, Adlai Firing Point Blank

Dem Challenges GOP Chief To Lead Ban On Bomb Tests

TEANECK, N. J. — Adlai E. Stevenson challenged President Eisenhower today to "take the leadership" in a move to ban hydrogen bomb tests and suggested Russia is willing to go along.

Renewing his campaign call for an end to testing of large-scale nuclear weapons, the Democratic presidential nominee declared:

"The renunciation of such tests is a step which I think the great powers are now willing to take, if there is leadership in this direction. It is a step that can be safely taken, for no one can explode a hydrogen bomb in secret, and each would know whether the others were acting in good faith. It would be a step along a new path toward peace."

Since only the United States, Britain and Russia are known to possess nuclear weapons, Stevenson obviously included Russia when he said he thinks "the great powers" are willing to suspend H-bomb tests.

subjects as mutual inspection and limitation of armed forces."

He said it is because he sees the building of a peaceful world as an "organic process" that he attaches "so much importance to the halting of large-scale nuclear tests by the great powers."

"Surely," Stevenson continued, "there must be sufficient vision to save the human race from contaminating its own air, from filling the upper atmosphere with malignant elements which may have incalculable effects on humanity."

Stevenson arranged a visit to Dickinson to view a world arms control center set up to stimulate thinking about peace.

He said the beginning of practical thought about peace "is the complete conviction that war is no longer a practical means of adjusting differences between nations."

President Continues Jobs At Stevenson's Criticism

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower's campaign foray into Kentucky and Ohio pointed up how he now is firing back at Adlai Stevenson despite a September assertion he would leave the replies to other Republicans.

In a nationwide television-radio address Monday night at Lexington, Ky., and in a speech earlier in the day at Cleveland, Eisenhower replied to his Democratic opponent on a good many points although he never once mentioned Stevenson by name.

The closest Eisenhower came to naming Stevenson was to allude to the Democratic nominee as an "apparently confused candidate" on the issue of federal aid for education.

Eisenhower envisioned 70 million jobs "at good wages" for Americans if he is reelected. He reported September figures showing 66,100,000 persons at work.

He prefaced his jobs by saying "political oratory . . . at its most reckless has plunged to the wild extremes of charging this administration with such fabulous failings as not guarding the peace and not caring for the welfare of any humble citizen or any needy family in our land."

Then he added:

"WE ALL KNOW that there are people who suffer from living in a world of words and phrases for so long that they can no longer recognize action when they see it. "And, when it comes to a really critical matter like political leadership, we recall a fact that all of us have seen in our own daily lives: The longest lectures almost always come from those with the least experience."

At a September news conference, Eisenhower was asked whether he would reply to criticism by the Democrats.

Eisenhower replied he was going to answer no criticism, that he would leave that to others.

But only a few days later the President hit back at Stevenson's suggestion it might be possible to end the draft in the foreseeable future under circumstances consistent with national security.

Eisenhower also spoke out against the Stevenson proposal contemplating an end to hydrogen bomb tests, saying it is not feasible at this time.

In his Sept. 25 farm address at Peoria, Ill., Eisenhower swatted at Stevenson's agriculture program. In Lexington and Cleveland Monday the President loosed fresh salvos at his opponent. Eisenhower talked of an "apparently confused candidate" who, the President said, supported a school aid bill "that we (the Republicans) posed and that his party defeated."

In addition to hitting the Democratic lawmakers on federal aid for education, which he said they killed in the House, the President contended the opposition party stood in the way of action on:

1. Financial and technical aid to areas suffering chronic local unemployment.

2. Extension of the minimum wage law to more persons.

3. Grants to states to expand and strengthen occupational safety programs.

The father of the victim in some manner succeeded in pulling his son from the pipe and wire, the sheriff's office reported. Young Dowler and his parents were then driven to Berger Hospital by a neighbor.

DAVE OTIS Dowler was born Dec. 10, 1930, in Columbus. His mother was the former Helen Eddy.

He was a graduate of Ashville High School and Ohio State University. And, in addition to his many other activities, he served for seven years in the Air National Guard.

YOUNGSTOWN — Democratic presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson today was reported scheduled to deliver a major campaign address in Youngstown Oct. 18.

The announcement was made by Rep. Michael J. Kirwan, Democratic congressman here.

Kirwan said no specific plans have been made yet, but that Stevenson may stay overnight in Youngstown after his address. He said plans are under way by local Democrats to bring out a big crowd to hear Stevenson's talk.

New Garbage Plan Up For Decision

Public's Indifference Worries Councilmen; Meeting Tonight

An ordinance that could launch a modern system of garbage collections and disposal in Circleville will be up for final reading tonight in city council.

Making no effort to conceal the fact that the legislation "can't be expected to satisfy everybody," members of the law-making body are more concerned over the public's indifference toward the pending measure. Its provisions would affect most homes in the community.

Only a few spectators were on hand at the two latest meetings while the "garbage ordinance" was being moved up to its final reading. And councilmen point out that nearly all of the queries came from potential bidders for the city-wide contract and independent garbage haulers.

The general public, presumably, is willing to "wait and see" what changes the new ordinance would bring.

THE "garbage ordinance" calls for a sanitary landfill dumping area, at a location to be determined by the contractor. One of the potential bidders is said to have "nearly a half-dozen places around town where they could set up dumping grounds."

The sanitary landfill system—by which the refuse at the dump is covered over at the end of each day—is a detail that seems to meet with general approval, but the same does not go for other important sections of the legislation.

At council's latest meeting, City Solicitor Kenneth Robbins indicated he does not approve of parts of the ordinance as it is now drawn.

Still more opposition has been evident from those who want a place in the new setup for the haulers now doing business on an independent basis. A number of residents have sent word to council that they want to "keep the garbage man we have now."

And this, according to Robbins, cannot be done under the plan up for decision.

Some of the independent haulers appeared before council last month to protest what they claim is a "move to shove out the little man."

A NEWCOMER to council, Bill Wyatt, is expected to attend his first meeting tonight. Council meetings are held on the second floor of city hall, beginning at 8 p. m.

Council elected Wyatt to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Second Ward Councilman Lee Cook.

Wyatt has pointed out that it will be "a while yet" before he becomes familiar enough with current municipal issues, and related legislation, to make his views public. Wyatt, a former Circleville High School teacher, now works at an aircraft factory in Columbus.

At least a few fund appropriation measures are also on the list for council's study tonight.

Second Sailor Dies Of Blast Wounds

LANDSTUHL, Germany (AP) — A second U. S. Navy man died Monday night of injuries received in the premature explosion of a shell during anti-aircraft exercises aboard the U. S. Destroyer John R. Pierce. Seven of the 11 other injured men were reported in a critical condition.

One sailor of the 13-man crew was killed outright when the shell exploded Monday in the breach of a 5-inch gun while the destroyer was operating in the Mediterranean about 75 miles south of Villefranche, on the French Riviera.

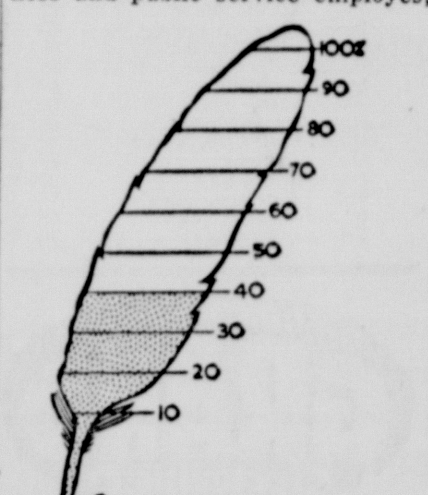

The other 12 men of the gun detail, all injured, were flown to the army hospital here for treatment.

Fund Pushing Close To Half $28,405 Goal

Contributions Past 40 Percent; House Calls Under Way

Pickaway County's Community Fund Drive climbed past the 40 percent mark today as the important residential solicitations continued, in Circleville and throughout the rest of the county.

House-to-house solicitations will continue for about two weeks, and cleanup work also has yet to be completed in some sections of the "sources of income" groups. The latter, including industrial, business and public service employees, registered 100 percent contributions for some departments.

Latest to join the "100 percent list" were the Circleville city fire department and Circleville city school employees.

This year's Community Fund Drive, second ever held in Pickaway County, is aimed at a goal of $28,405. Ed Grigg is chairman of the campaign.

The Fund organization covers five agencies: Pickaway County Chapter, American Red Cross; Salvation Army, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and the Pickaway County Youth Canteen.

Ike Again Expands His Vote Campaign

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower will make a late October campaign appearance in New York City.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty announced this in the wake of a conference today between Eisenhower and Jacob K. Javits, the Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate from New York.

Eisenhower also is considering showing up at a United Nations meeting in New York. And Wednesday he is flying up to attend the first game of the World Series.

Cincy Woman Still Hunting For Her Missing Collie Pup

CINCINNATI (AP) — A determined Ohio woman has made Road Forks, N. M., a tiny crossroads village, the center of a search she says she'll never give up until she finds a missing friend.

She is looking for her dog. The woman is Dorothy Lauck, a 44-year-old telephone operator at the Fernald Atomic Energy Plant near her home in Cincinnati.

In the last nine weeks her name and face have become familiar to people living in the dry rugged country between Lordsburg, in southwest New Mexico, and Wilcox, across the border in Arizona.

In that stretch of 78 miles, her dog Mickey was lost.

Miss Lauck was returning from vacation last July 27, driving east at night on Rt. 86. She left Wilcox after a rainstorm passed and opened the left rear window so the dog could poke his head out.

When she reached Lordsburg, Mickey was missing.

In the next few days she covered hundreds of miles in the two states, much of it on foot, probing gullies that a dog might crawl into in this hot, hard country.

SHE TOOK HER accumulated leave time and widened the search to the north and south, asking more people and advertising in some papers. Her sister came down from Cincinnati to help. Miss Lauck got some more days off without pay.

But only a few days later the President hit back at Stevenson's suggestion it might be possible to end the draft in the foreseeable future under circumstances consistent with national security.

Eisenhower also spoke out against the Stevenson proposal contemplating an end to hydrogen bomb tests, saying it is not feasible at this time.

Probers Eye Schools Used By Officials

WASHINGTON — Steps are being taken to supply a special House subcommittee with a list of how many government officials in Washington send their children or grandchildren to racially mixed schools in the nation's capital.

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. James C. Davis (D-Ga.) and comprised largely of Southerners, made the request shortly before concluding hearing Monday into the effects of integration of white and Negro children in District of Columbia schools.

Dr. Hobart M. Corning, superintendent of schools, said he would supply the list. It is to cover the children and grandchildren of President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon, Supreme Court justices, Cabinet members, White House aides, senators, House members and District of Columbia commissioners.

The subcommittee's investigation today was termed "illegal" by Rep. Dawson (D-Ill.), one of three Negro House members.

Dawson declined to say just what action he plans against the group, but added: "I'm going to question their right to do something illegal with the taxpayer's money."

This brought the reply from Davis that he would not have proceeded if he thought the inquiry was illegal.

The subcommittee wound up its probe the same day the U. S. Supreme Court began a new session. During the weeks and months ahead the high tribunal is expected to tackle a heavy docket of cases studded with problems of racial integration in schools.

'Brass Collar' Democrats In Texas Claim State Shifting Away From Ike

Editor's Note: This is another in a series by political reporters of the Associated Press who have been surveying sentiment in key states.

By ARTHUR EDSON

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Drive east along U. S. Highway 80, and you run into what Texans call brass collar Democrats. They are the ones who, no matter what, vote the straight Democratic ticket.

This is the year when the brass collar boys in these parts say "I told you so" to those who four years ago left the Democratic party and gave Texas' 24 electoral votes to Dwight D. Eisenhower.

For a mammoth drought has turned the grass bright yellow, as if the ground were covered with newly threshed straw. Trees are dying. The good black earth appears to be as hard as concrete.

Obviously it wouldn't have rained any more if Adlai Stevenson had carried Texas in 1952. But in times of discontent, it's convenient to blame the party in power.

Anyone touring this state, listening to what ordinary voters say about Eisenhower's chances of keeping Texas away from Stevenson, will find this a good spot to begin.

For it illustrates some of the problems the GOP is up against in a state that only twice has given its support to a Republican presidential candidate. The other time was in 1928, when Texas backed Alford E. Smith and voted for Herbert Hoover.

Not that the Republicans are conceding anything. They have strongholds, too.

Furthermore, they have Eisenhower, who in 1952 got 1,102,878 votes to Stevenson's 970,128.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Either President Eisenhower is mad at Adlai Stevenson for needing him or he has decided to fight harder. What's happening now is beginning to look like a repetition of 1952.

Monday was the first chance Eisenhower had to hit back since Stevenson ridiculed him last week. Stevenson must have stung. Eisenhower poured sarcasm on Stevenson. The two men belittled each other as a leader.

And Eisenhower is beginning to use some of the very words — "bunk," for instance — he threw at the Democrats when he got fired up in the 1952 campaign.

In the early days of the 1952 race Stevenson, a much wittier man in those days, repeatedly jibed at Eisenhower, calling him a "me, too" candidate and otherwise making light of him.

At last Eisenhower boiled over. Sweeping across Indiana in mid-September 1952 he made one speech after another complaining about Stevenson's humor. He told the crowds:

"I can't be amusing in this business. These are not laughing matters on which we are speaking... now as we face the issues of this campaign I see nothing funny about them."

Stevenson replied that he was just saying what came naturally.

As the campaign picked up speed, Eisenhower identified Stevenson with President Truman, calling them the "Siamese twins." And he said: "This has been some campaign. The present incumbent (Truman) and his protegee have assailed me with the greatest collection of flim-flamming accusations made in any campaign."

He hasn't gone that far as yet in this campaign. But he must have decided he was too relaxed or he has decided to campaign harder.

Touche of ridicule for Eisenhower crept into Stevenson's speeches early this year. On Sept. 22 and 23 he said "I respect the kindly intentions of President Eisenhower" and that he was "willing to believe" Eisenhower didn't "understand what he was saying" when he talked of the farm problem in 1952.

Then he added he suspects Eisenhower of "political expediency" in dealing with the farmers this year. On Sept. 26 at Kansas City he made his most scornful attack on Eisenhower so far.

After accusing Eisenhower of failure to live up to his "responsibility of leadership," Stevenson said: "In fact, many people have wondered how much President Eisenhower has had to do with the Eisenhower administration. Sometimes the President seemed to wonder himself..."

"There is only one question to be asked about the Eisenhower administration. That is: Who's in charge here anyway? Who, in this businessman's administration keeps the store?"

Monday Eisenhower went to Ohio and Kentucky and made two speeches. He didn't mention Stevenson by name, but there could be no doubt whom he meant when he said:

"We all know that there are people who suffer from living in a world of words and phrases for so long that they can no longer recognize action when they see it."

"And — when it comes to a really critical matter like political leadership — we recall a fact that all of us have seen in our own daily lives: The longest lectures almost always come from those with the least experience."

Group Predicts Traffic Jam Coming Soon On Ohio River

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Ohio Valley Improvement Assn. fears the "greatest traffic jam in history" will come soon on the Ohio River unless spending for new dams is accelerated.

Advocating federal expenditures totaling 46 million dollars on these projects in the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1957, the group said the Ohio "is rapidly approaching the limit of its capacity."

Unless congress steps up the pace of its projects in the river, said OVIA, "continued economic development of the (Ohio) valley will be seriously retarded."

OVIA's views were set forth in a booklet submitted to Percival F. Brundage, director of the budget bureau.

William J. Hull, chairman of OVIA's legislative committee, wrote Brundage: "These navigation improvements (recommended by OVIA) will return to the citizens of our country five to 10 times the investment required."

OVIA's recommended spending on the Ohio for fiscal 1958 was: New Cumberland (W. Va.)—10 million dollars; Greenup (Ky.)—18 million; Markland (Ind.)—11 million; lock and dam 41 (Louisville, Ky.)—6 million; New Richmond (Ky.)—1 million.

In addition, OVIA recommended $400,000 more be appropriated by the new congress for planning "such additional projects on the main stem of the Ohio River as designate."

OVIA — a group representing business, farm and civic interests — said that in addition to the rapid growth of the Ohio valley "defense interests argue strongly for speeding up the (river) program."

OVIA said: "If the Suez Canal should be closed, heavy additional demands for water transportation of petroleum and its products on the Ohio — Mississippi river system would immediately arise."

"The inadequate navigation facilities on the Ohio would, in that bottleneck. Moreover, the electric power requirements of the atomic energy program in the Ohio valley are dependent upon efficient low cost water transportation."

The group further recommended to Brundage these expenditures on Ohio river tributary projects:

Monongahela River — Hildebrand locks and dam—6 million; dam No. 8—1½ million; lock and dam No. 5 and Opekiska lock and dam—$300,000 (planning only).

Cumberland River — Cheatham locks and dam—1½ million; Old Hickory lock and dam—$700,000; Barkley lock and dam—5 million.

With respect to flood control in the Ohio valley, the association said it agreed with the army engineers' program and recommended $29,005,000 be appropriated for that purpose next year.

The group added: "Funds totaling $3,800,000 are recommended for fiscal 1958 for new construction on flood control projects at Allegheny River reservoir, Pennsylvania and New York; Roseville, Ohio; Lake City, Tenn.; and Mason J. Niblock levee, Ind."

The association urged further that planning funds totaling $1,400,000 be made available for advance engineering and design on flood control projects at Summerville, W. Va.; levee unit 5, Wabash River, Ind.; Nolan Reservoir, Ky. No. 2 Barren River reservoir, Ky.; Sturgis, Ky.

Negotiations In Phone Fuss Continuing

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—Negotiations in the long strike of the Communication Workers of America against the Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. resumed here Monday.

Still to be determined is whether efforts to settle the 11-week strike are to be moved to Columbus before the state industrial commission. The commission entered the strike picture recently on request of Mayor Vernal Riffe of New Boston.

There was no indication that any progress was being made in a strike settlement. J. Curtis Fletcher, CWA national director, said: "When our members at Ohio Consolidated went out on strike July 15 there were almost 20 items still unsettled between the union and the new General Telephone system management of the company."

"Now, at the end of 11 weeks of strike, the same items are still in dispute. We have conducted one of the most effective strikes in telephone history, and yet the company has not budged one inch from the position it took before the strike started."

"The union's position is essentially defensive. We are defending our gains of former years. It is up to management to start dropping its retrogressive demands so that we may bargain out a satisfactory and honorable agreement."

Meanwhile, company spokesmen reported that the firm's repairmen worked on 32 severed cables last week at Sciotoville, restoring service to 930 subscribers. More than 460 other telephones were cut off during the week in other instances of cable cutting, the company said. The union has denied any knowledge of the cable cutting incidents.

Naturalization Seen Curbing Outside Help

Nation Which Decides To Go It Alone May Cut Financial Throat

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Does it pay a nation to seize others' property? Some of them seem to think so. But the question is whether they can make a go of running it themselves, and whether they'll scare off further outside financial aid, not only for themselves but for their neighbors who say they need it desperately.

Seizure of the Suez Canal is the latest example of the wave of nationalization that has been gaining strength in various areas of the world.

But on the purely business and investment front the debate is largely one of dollars and cents. Americans have huge sums invested abroad — more than 19 billion dollars worth of property and securities.

The underdeveloped countries are crying for more. Every now and then some nation seizes foreign-held and foreign-developed properties.

"No one knows when, where or how the next blow will fall," says the First National City Bank of New York in its October letter out today.

"Nationalization of foreign assets, repudiation of debt and anti-foreign discriminations in various shapes and forms afford poor inducement for outside people to risk either their tax money or their private savings in areas that do not recognize a code of fair conduct in international financial relations. Who wants to throw good money after bad?"

On the question of whether nations really profit by seizing the property of others, the bank notes that "in general, the record shows — where nationalization has been tried — not more, but less, production has resulted." It cites two examples: The seizure of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co.'s wells and the Great Abadan Refinery by Mosaddegh in 1951 in Iran, and the Nationalization of the tin mines in Bolivia in 1952.

The Abadan refinery, largest in the world, closed down for 3½ years and the production of Iranian oil all but stopped.

Seizure of the tin mines in Bolivia the bank says, hasn't worked out so well.

The next nationalization step most feared by American business at the moment involves the oil fields in the Arabian lands.

Thieves At Work As Cops Flood Town

SHERMAN, Tex. (AP)—Some 100 law officers were attending the 1956-57 regional convention of the Texas Police Assn. Monday night. But two burglaries and an armed robbery were committed, just the same.

A Sherman service station was robbed of $150, a church pilfering netted $4 and an undetermined amount was stolen from a juke box in a cafeteria.

HAMILTON (AP)—The stolen car of a Buffalo, N. Y., jeweler was recovered Monday night near a railroad depot at nearby Maud, but the $30,000 in diamond rings it had contained was missing.

PORTSMOUTH (AP)—The Portsmouth Gas Co. announced Monday it would refund about $45,000 to its customers.

The refund is made possible, the company reported, because of a rate adjustment agreement between the United Fuel Gas Co. of Charleston, W. Va., the wholesale supplier, and officials of three major pipe line companies.

MAKE A DESK THAT GROWS

A table desk, 23-3/4 inches high for a small child, may be transformed to 28 inches high when the child grows up. The top is made of three boards fastened with 3/4-inch dowels and glue. Use six 4-inch dowel lengths in each matching edge. Dowel holes are 2-1/4 inch deep. Clamp the boards together until the glue sets. Hardwood plywood may also be used for the top. Base sections are of 1 by 12-inch lumber, fastened with glue and 6-penny finishing nails. To make the low desk, the base sections are placed with the opening downward. For the high desk, the openings serve as shelves. Fasten the top to the bases with corner braces—three, evenly spaced, on each side of each base. The braces are fastened with screws. Sand the desk well, rounding all sharp edges, before staining and varnishing.

Roundtown Retrospect

By Mac Noggle

On many of the maps of this part of Ohio, drawn by early missionaries, scouts and military leaders, are pin-pointed spots called "Chillicothe." This is a Shawnee Indian word meaning simply "a dwelling place."

At one time, within a short radius, south and west of Circleville, were three Shawnee villages known as Chillicothe. Where Westfall is now—the home of Chief Logan—was "Old Chillicothe"; Frankfort was a Chillicothe, and of course our neighbor, twenty miles south, was another Chillicothe.

The word "Chillicothe" was the name of a legendary leader of the Shawanoo or Shawnee Nation. The Shawnees, in the 17th century, were divided into two groups, one in the Cumberland River Valley and the other in South Carolina.

Around 1690, it is known that both of these groups were moving into eastern Pennsylvania to escape trouble with other tribes of Indians, and by 1720 they were moving into the Ohio Valley. It appears that these people were rather nomadic in character, for we find them pretty well scattered in the early years of the American Colonies. By 1750, they were a powerful people in the central part of Ohio.

THEY WERE proud, aggressive and fierce, and made a long stand against the advance of the white man. They had some great Chiefs —Cornstalk and Grenadier Squaw on Scioppo; Blue Jacket who led the Indians at the Battle of Fallen Timbers and Tecumseh, who was born on Lick Run, a short distance west of Circleville.

Here are some excerpts from an original manuscript in the Museum of Anthropology of the University of Michigan, which will give you the hereditary belief of the origin of the Shawnee word "Chillicothe." This manuscript was written in 1824 by C. C. Trowbridge, as received from the Shawnee Prophet, Tenskawatawa, a brother of Tecumseh.

The Prophet, too, probably spent his younger days near Westfall in Wayne Township in his dad's village of Kiskapooke.

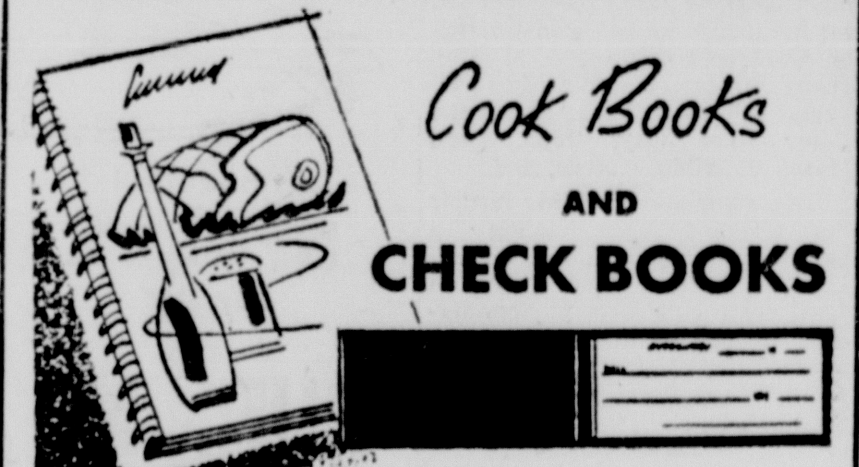

"When the Great Spirit made this island (the earth) he thought it necessary to make also human beings to inhabit it, and with this in view, he formed the Indian. They were all Shawnees—twelve of them—to become the roots of twelve tribes. He told them he would proceed gradually in forming all things below, but would finish everything to be created on the earth.

"Said the Great Spirit—since I will not be with you, you will require assistance from other sources. I therefore give you the SUN to take care of you and give you light during the day, and the MOON for the same purpose at night. I will also put some of my gray hairs upon one of you and he shall be an old man, and you shall call him your Grandfather.

"Then he told the Indians that the Old Man, being the first which he had formed, should be called Kwee-koo-laa. But Kwee - koo-laa soon found out that he was too old and weak to lead the party on their way, so he appointed Tshilli-kauthee to be their leader. Tshilli-kauthee (Chillicothe) soon started on his march, followed by all of the Indians.

"AFTER MANY days of travel, the Great Spirit visited them and told them that they had reached their destination—they had called it the Promised Land. Then the Great Spirit left them—saying he would not be seen again, and that they must think for themselves and hereafter pray to their Grandmother, the MOON."

Sen. Douglas Says GOP Fails In Task

AKRON (AP)—Sen. Paul H. Douglas told a Summit County Democratic rally here Monday night that the Eisenhower administration has not liberated any peoples from communism and has not "even contained communism as the Truman administration did after the fall of China."

The Illinois Democrat said the GOP's "main warcry was 'Korea, communism and corruption' when the 1952 campaign was on."

"They did make peace in Korea in 1953," he said, "but instead of liberating that country as they had promised, they permitted the communists to hold the northern half and to fortify it heavily."

Decker granted a stay of sentence and released Pampinella until Oct. 25 on $10,000 bond.

"Mary Hawthorth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My husband is 22 and I am 21. We have been married three and a half years and now, all of a sudden, our marriage is going on the rocks.

We have two little girls and it worries me that I may not be able to give them all the care they need if we get a divorce, though I don't see any other way. To add to the problem, I am pregnant again.

I am from England and don't have anybody to turn to here; and I don't want to write my parents yet, as it would only worry them. What caused this breakup was my wanting to go home. We could afford the trip, but my husband wanted to go into debt for another car. We've just finished paying (two years) for a car and I don't think we need a new one yet.

I think we are acting like children over this, but now that the idea of divorce has come up, my husband insists upon it; he won't listen to any other idea.

Joe (I'll call him) didn't have a happy childhood and his father still won't allow him in the house. His parents don't get on well together; there is continual fighting; and now his sister is divorcing her husband. With this background, I wonder if Joe can make a go of marriage.

He isn't all to blame; I have faults too; I can be very stubborn and also bad-tempered when crossed.

DEAR B. L.: Although such wasn't your purpose, I am sure, your open hearted statement of the case makes clear that Joe is the marriage wrecker here.

Stubborn you may be, and irritable when crossed, but your responsible concern for the children in this crisis shows that you are potentially good marriage material.

Jurors Selected In Murder Trial

CINCINNATI (AP) — Trial opened Monday with seating of five prospective jurors to hear the case of Denver Powell, 45, of El Centro, Calif., charged with first-degree murder in the holdup-slashing of a delicatessen operator here.

Powell is charged with aiding James Grigsby in the robbery on Nov. 27, 1949, in which John Schreck, 61, was fatally shot. Police said Powell told them Grigsby, who was killed during a Kentucky saloon brawl several months later, fired the fatal shot.

al. Your failure with Joe, thus far, doesn't mean that you would automatically make a hash of another try, with a fair-minded man.

You have the disposition to be a real partner, "for better or worse," in doing your duty and abiding by obligations—which means that you can grow and become mature, even if you haven't attained full adult wisdom and patience yet.

Joe is quite obviously snatching at an excuse to press for divorce, just to escape responsibility, no doubt.

As to whether divorce can or should be averted, I think you should have the benefit of first-hand specialist counsel in assessing the problem of coping with Joe. Combing the field of advisory services, I find that the American Red Cross has a chapter in the city through which you write, and its Home Service department helps iron out family difficulties such as yours.

Women Tell Women: Halt Your Cry For 'Equal Rights'

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

I agree with Mrs. Florence Beebe Anderson, a mechanical design engineer from Chicago, that it's time for women to stop beating the drums for "equal rights" and "equal recognition in business" and make use of what they have.

"After all," says Mrs. Anderson, "we've had recognition as women since Eve first offered Adam the apple."

Women do not need to try to act like men during business hours, as Mrs. Anderson points out. If most business women, secretaries and professional women would just be themselves from 9 to 5, things would be much better for everybody concerned.

Flattery is just as effective in the business world as it is in social contacts, says Mrs. Anderson. Every woman knows that flattery succeeds far better than nagging to achieve a desired objective with husband or boyfriend. The same is true of the boss.

For instance, if you want a raise, she advises, don't start complaining about how you can't afford a new pair of nylons, have to go without lunches and haven't had your hair done in three weeks. Don't keep reminding the boss that you're doing twice as much work as you're paid for. This will only put him on the defensive.

Instead tell him how fortunate you are to have such a brilliant and understanding employer, who understands the necessity of keeping up appearances in the business world.

The woman who understands human relations is the one who is going to get ahead in the business world, says Mrs. Anderson. Women naturally have more tact and sensitivity than men, as a rule, and often could straighten out a tense business crisis simply by exercising their intuitive knowledge of what makes people tick.

A woman who is not afraid to be herself in the office probably will have an opportunity to move ahead to more responsible jobs as she demonstrates her ability to deal with human beings.

INCREASE IN CRIME

IT DID NOT surprise the average newspaper reader to learn that major crimes increased during the first six months of 1956. It would have been hard to reach a different conclusion from the daily chronology of murders, burglaries and other crimes.

What is discouraging about the figures just released by the FBI is that this upturn came after a year which saw declines in all major crimes. Law enforcement officials had dared to hope that 1955 was the turning point in their continual war on criminals.

Now FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover announces there was a 14.4 per cent increase in major crimes during the first six months of 1956. A total of nearly 1.3 million major crimes was logged by the FBI in the first half of the year, 162,770 more than for the same period last year.

Automobile thefts registered the largest gain, with larceny a close second. The figures were 22 per cent and 18 per cent, respectively. Some police attribute the big increase in auto thefts to increasing negligence on the part of owners who fail to lock their cars.

The crime problem is one that calls for the application of the nation's best minds if gains are to be made on the criminal element. Certainly 2.5 million major crimes a year is too great a price for the nation to pay as a result of failure to prevent crimes. Most crimes are solved, but the cost to the taxpayers is tremendous.

Surely some way can be found to prevent some of the crimes which now command the time of thousands of policemen in running down clues. Would more severe punishment have the desired effect?

RESPONSIBLE DECISION

IN TURNING down the application of the International Longshoremen's Association for re-entry into the AFL-CIO from which it was expelled, President George Meany of the affiliated labor groups found that ILA was still too much dominated by racketeers and mobsters.

The accused union has the power to tie up docks and shipping. Another union was established in an effort to obliterate ILA but didn't get the job done.

A behind the scenes factor in Meany's decision is said to be Harry Bridges, one of the more notorious labor leaders who several times has been saved from deportation or prison by a hair. He is a power on the West Coast and Hawaii. Meany may have feared that if ILA was taken back, Bridges would try to take it into his International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union.

If successful, he would be able to exercise a dangerous power in any national crisis.

Always present is a monopolistic potentiality in labor organization which is as disquieting as any "trust" with which America has contended. Meany made a responsible decision in continuing to exclude ILA. There will be other decisions to make.

Upon them may depend whether America will be forced to come to grips with labor monopoly to safeguard the national interest.

These Days

The 1956 Election is less than six weeks away as this is being written. The campaign shows some motion and there have been some speeches. But the whole effort, of both parties, is astonishingly dull.

Maybe the reformers have succeeded in achieving what they like to call a "clean election," that is, one in which there is such a deference to the other side that the whole business is meaningless. There is no genuine discussion, no ardent debate, no intense excitement. It is very dull.

The best effort of the Democrats thus far is to accuse Dr. Milton Eisenhower of favoring Peron, when as a matter of fact, Peron got the American taxpayers' money, more than $100,000,000, during the prior Administration.

Here in New York State there is supposed to be a contest for the United States Senatorship between Robert Wagner, Democrat, and Jacob Javits who is running on the Republican ticket. It is more like an "Apres vous, Gaston," politeness. Nothing happens.

Senator Irving Ives has tried to make a martyr of Javits who does not look like a martyr of any kind and Wagner seems to go about his business of being Mayor of New York City as though there were no campaign at all. Everything is very peaceful and quiet and nobody discusses anything very seriously or with fire in his eye. It is very dull.

The greatest effort of the Republicans thus far has been to say that Mayor Wagner's successor, should he be elected, Abe Stark, while a very decent person, is not trained to be a Mayor, he running a haberdashery and clothing store. So did Harry Truman at one time. Also Javits says that he knows more about foreign affairs than Wagner does. But nobody boasts about knowing anything about the United States.

Of course, something could happen to brighten the campaign, a slip of the tongue might lead to a bit of self-exposure on the part of a candidate, such as the proposal for a four-day work week which could out-price American production even in American markets unless accompanied by an isolationist high tariff.

From the general attitude, it would look as though there were nothing to argue about, no vast differences of opinion, no varieties of public opinion. The Republican campaign is centered on "I like Ike"; the Democratic campaign on the hole in Stevenson's shoe.

The real issue, of course, is the Negro question. Both candidates are hedging and are asking everybody to obey the law as interpreted by the Supreme Court. But what has actually happened in the South is more serious, more fundamental than the Warren opinion on segregation in the schools.

What has happened in the South is that an issue which both white and Negro communal leaders believed that they were handling well, has become so explosive as a result of the Supreme Court decision that it reflects, in many aspects, similar anti-white movements in other parts of the world. And the white population has organized anti-white movements in other parts of the world. And the white population has organized anti-white movements in other parts of the world. And the white population has organized anti-white movements in other parts of the world.

"YOU'VE been a long time in coming," said Kinney. "I've been waiting two days." Ekland explained. "The Indians had moved, so I left my buggy and one horse and rode the other to find them and have a look. I didn't want to blunder into trouble."

"There'd have been no trouble for you—not with what you had for them."

"If trouble was brewing, I wanted to have a look before I delivered anything," Ekland retorted bluntly.

"So! What happened?" "A grizzly came along while I was gone and my cayuse broke loose. In the storm, I couldn't find it again. When I got back to the buggy, the other horse was gone."

"What about your load?"

"I'd cached the rifles already, when I found what they were. The Indians are getting ready for war, Kinney. Maybe they had you fooled. But I'm not running guns to them—not under these conditions."

Kinney's tone was mild. "Well, you've been there and had a look, and I haven't," he conceded. "I'll check up. If I find they're kicking over the traces, I'll know what to do. And if I find that you're trying to pull a fast one, it won't go so good for you, either."

That was all, and somehow it was more ominous than a wilder outburst. But he'd made his position plain, and tired as he was, Ekland felt as if a heavy weight had been removed, as he crossed to his own cabin.

Kinney sat, not moving, eyes half-closed. He knew what his course was to be, yet, oddly enough, he felt a faint regret, and no hurry to go about it. His earlier anger had cooled, and Ekland's forthrightness had impressed him. Most men who hindered him he crushed without compunction or even a second thought. Somehow, in this instance, it was different.

The doc understood perfectly well that he was putting his neck in jeopardy, yet he went ahead without bluff or whine. If he'd tried a double-cross, now, or been righteously or defiant, it would have been different. Somehow you couldn't get too mad at a man like him.

Kinney was still sitting there when another caller was announced. This man was ostensibly a trapper and prospector, and he came rarely to town. Only two things ever brought him: the need for supplies, or to report to the man who paid him wages for fitting about the hills and plains.

And about 731 will be killed in traffic mishaps of all kinds.

What is the best way to keep members of your own household off the obituary list? Hawthorne offered these suggestions:

1. Keep poisonous household cleaners out of the reach of children.
2. Make sure floors are not slippery or cluttered, and that stairways are well lighted.
3. Don't overload wiring, and don't store oily rags.
4. Lock up firearms, and don't assume they are unloaded.
5. Keep a first aid kit in your house and car, and learn how to use it.
6. Drive your own car the way you believe the other fellow ought to drive his.

with eyes open and ears on the stretch. Obviously the latter was his reason now.

"The Indians have moved," he said. "You know what that means!"

Kinney nodded. "I knew that." His henchman looked disappointed. "Thought you'd want to know," he grumbled. "I guess you always do know what's going on, though, mostly before it happens."

"I am to," Kinney agreed.

"Yeah. And them havin' new carbines—you would know, all right."

Kinney straightened suddenly. "What's that?"

His spy looked surprised. "Why, nothin'," he protested. "Only they seem to have about a dozen brand-new rifles—carbines. Plains guns, they looked like to me. I reckoned of course they'd got 'em from you."

After he had gone, Kinney pondered. So the guns had been delivered, after all. This put a new light on the whole affair. Ekland was a shrewder customer than he'd given him credit for—but the medico was a chump, as was any man who thought to cheat him out of his share. By the same token, Ekland was cut from the same cloth. Those pretensions to principle, his refusal to deliver the rifles on account of scruples—that was a laugh. Well, this news made what he had to do a pleasant chore.

Stepping out into the saloon, Kinney looked around. Most of the customers had gone home, and a word to the bartender confirmed that Script Nyman had left early. Which wasn't to be wondered at. What puzzled Kinney was that a man who had sworn off liquor should continue to hang around the saloon. But with Nyman there was nowhere else to go, no other life that he knew.

Nyman's early departure suited Kinney. He lifted down several flasks of whiskey, stuffed them into his pockets, and went out into the night. Presently he knocked at Script Nyman's door and let himself in. There was a sleepy stir, the close smell of a room used for cooking, eating and sleeping, and badly in need of ventilation. Leaving the door open, Kinney scratched a match and got the wick of a lamp alight.

Nyman was a small man, once neat and precise but badly gone to seed. He sat up in bed now, tousled, in need of a shave, but clear-eyed.

"Oh, it's you, Dolf," he said, with the air of a man past feeling surprise at the caprices of life.

Kinney lifted the flasks of

U.S. Farms May Supply Much-Needed Cortisone

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

AMERICAN farmers may be able to give medical science a hand by growing and harvesting "cortisone crops."

This, at least, is the hope of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and, of course, our scientists. Studies are under way right now to determine the feasibility of the plan.

The "cortisone crops" would be plants of the Dioscorea species, close relatives of the Mexican yam, having a high content of hormone-like chemicals which can be converted into cortisone, male and female sex hormones and other steroid substances.

New Strain
In fact, two new hormone precursors, found in a new strain of the Dioscorea plant on the Mexican-Guatemalan border, may possibly prove to be better raw material for the manufacture of cortisone than any presently known.

The value of such plants is obvious. If they can be grown successfully in the U. S., it would mean plentiful, relatively inexpensive hormones for medical use.

Scientists have been searching for a plant with a high content of word he knew on the mule, but the results were nil. Disillusioned, he marched it back to the trader and said, "You lied to me about this critter, mister. He just won't do nothing."

The trader picked up a big stick, and proceeded to clobber the stuffings out of the mule. "Wait a minute," protested the farmer. "I thought you told me just to use kind words."

"Sure I did," agreed the trader, "but first you got to win his attention."

1,788 Needlessly Dead

NEW YORK (AP)—Can you spare three minutes which might help you and your family to live longer?

Yes? Then read on:

If this is a normally safe week, 1,788 Americans alive this morning will be dead seven days from today. Needlessly dead.

They will die in accidents, most of them avoidable. Another 173,071 will hurt themselves in accidents, most of them avoidable.

Wouldn't you think a country odd if it were safer to fight for on a foreign battlefield in war-time than to dwell in during peace?

Well, fellow Americans, that's our happy, prosperous country, the land of the home-hurt free and the car-crippled brave.

During the bloody World War II the United States suffered an average of 65,330 combat dead and 149,077 combat wounded, each year. But during peaceful but even more bloody 1955 its accident toll was 93,000 dead and 9,000,000 injured. What other nation in history has managed to be more deadly at work and play than it has been at war?

"The number of Americans killed accidentally last year was nearly triple the number of GI deaths during the entire Korean war," pointed out Kenneth Hawthorne, director of a safety organization called the "Emergencies—Don't-Wait-Week Institute."

The financial cost of these accidents came to $10 billion, enough to run the New York state government for the next eight years.

The seventh annual Emergencies-Don't-Wait-Week, proclaimed this year by 34 governors and 300 mayors started Monday.

And what will happen during the next seven days, even as safe patterns of living are being emphasized by a nationwide educational program?

Hawthorne predicts 1,788 violent accidental deaths, and gives this partial breakdown of causes:

Eleven hunters will either kill themselves by careless handling of their own guns or be shot to death by companions who mistake them for four-footed game.

Among 31 other firearm deaths most of the victims will be children between 5 and 14.

Eighteen do-it-yourself handy-men will be electrocuted doing home repair jobs because they forgot to turn off the current.

Approximately 281 persons will suffer fatal falls on slippery pavements, in bathtubs, and on highly polished floors.

Fires will take another 121 lives and many will be smokers who lit their last cigarettes in bed just before falling asleep.

Some 47 will die of leaking gas

Mansfield Wonders What Will Happen To 'Malabar'

MANSFIELD (P)—Around here, folks are wondering what is going to happen to Malabar, the 1,000-acre farm of the late Louis Bromfield, novelist and soil expert who carved it out of abandoned fields and eroded hills.

The "Friends of the Land" are wondering, too, and they are also doing something. They want to preserve Malabar as a living memorial to the most famous member of their organization, and maintain it as a demonstration of the advanced agricultural methods Bromfield preached and practiced.

Louis Bromfield came back to his native Richland County of Ohio in 1938—back to the Pleasant Valley which had been with him in spirit all through the years he lived in Europe, where, on a small farm outside Paris, he divided his time between farming and writing novels.

Already established as a literary celebrity—a Pulitzer Prize winner whose books had been made into motion pictures—Bromfield returned to what he often called "the great adventure of my life," the purchase of four worn-out farms and the rebuilding of them into the lush Malabar farm, named for a section of the Malabar Coast of India, scene of "The Rains Came."

Over a period of 15 years, Bromfield practiced at Malabar what he had been preaching for many years. His thinking is best summed up in excerpts from one of his books, "Pleasant Valley," the story of his return to the land: "We know that poor, worn-out land makes not only poor crops and scrubby cattle; it makes impoverished people as well."

"... Much rural insecurity arises because there are too many bad and careless farmers, and too many lazy ones—the difference is that their prosperous forefathers had deep virgin soil, now destroyed and mined-out by succeeding generations who put nothing back into the soil."

At Malabar, Bromfield set out to practice "the new agriculture." His restoration program included the rebuilding of the soil organically, improving drainage, halting erosion, fertilization and the addition of "trace" elements to the soil.

Three years after Malabar was

Poll Machine Dispute Still Deadlocked

DAYTON, Ohio (P)—Members of the Montgomery County election board split along party lines Monday over a proposed compromise in a dispute over use of voting machines in Nov. 6 balloting.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown meeting with the board, indicated that the issue probably would go to the Ohio Supreme Court where he said a final decision appeared unlikely until after the general election.

Brown referred to an appeal from an appellate court ruling that one voting machine or a booth for paper ballot marking must be furnished for each 100 registered voters. Officials said voters in Montgomery and other counties using machines outnumbered that ratio by a wide margin.

The secretary of state said enforcement of the appellate court ruling would be difficult and costly because the election is only a few weeks away. He has termed use of both machines and paper ballots impractical.

Two Democrats approved a proposal to have the appellate court vacate its entry if one voting machine was provided for each 200 registered voters or at least one paper ballot stall for each 100 voters. The two Republican board members favored appeal to the supreme court.

Woman, 56, Killed On Hospital Ground

CINCINNATI (P)—A truck Monday crushed to death Mrs. Alvina Plust, 56, on the grounds of Christ Hospital where she worked.

Police said the truck driver, J. P. Farrar, 27, told them he was backing to a ramp at the rear of the hospital and after hearing a "bump" found the woman under major pipe line companies.

established there came into being an organization known as "Friends of the Land." Made up of writers, bankers, professors and others.

Bromfield joined them, not as a mere figurehead, but as a working member. He made cross-country speaking jaunts, appeared before hundreds of college, industrial and farming groups.

Last March "Mr. B." died. Fellow members of "Friends of the Land" feared that his death marked also the end of Malabar. Not for long though.

With family and estate obligations still to be considered, the "Friends" are already looking for means to maintain the farm in its present state. There is reason to believe that the famous Battelle Memorial Institute of Columbus, might be willing to undertake agricultural research and development at Malabar should enough money be raised by private subscription or endowment to purchase the property.

For the present, all expenses incurred in the farm operations are being assumed personally by Herbert and Ralph Cobey, Gallon industrialists and close friends of Bromfield.

Sokolsky's These Days

The Third Party will not, of course, send Andrews to the White House but it gives evidence of being a rallying post for those who are weary of the South being the tail to a Northern kite.

On the other hand, the enormous migration of Southern Negroes to the large industrial cities of the North, cities which have not usually been Democratic but have become so, forces the Democratic politicians to view their fortunes with strabismic eyes; in fact, they are so cross-eyed that what they see in the North frightens them more than what they see in the South and both frighten them plenty.

Politicians dislike even to mention the Negro question, but that is what faces this country where about 10 percent of the population thinks in terms of equal rights which the Negroes contend are unavailable to them because of their color. And in the South, there are those who insist that Negroes should not have equal social rights no matter what economic advantages they enjoy. The social fear is inter-marriage.

Questions of this nature cannot be buried in the sterile sands of campaign verbiage.

The bureau, in its regular 30-

"Precipitation is expected to exceed normal in the north Atlantic states and in the Gulf Coast regions. Near normal

Grieving Dog Adopts Lion Cub

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (P)—A dog named Fuzzy joined the circus with the job of nursing a newborn lion.

Fuzzy was grieving over the loss of a puppy, and the cub was trying to escape being killed by its mother when police got the two together. They hit it off fine.

The cub's mother, Giner, belongs to a traveling wild animal show. She killed cubs she had once before, owner Eddie Kuhn said.

Lion cubs will not feed on a bottle, and the mothers rarely raise their young in a circus because of the nearby humans, Kuhn said. So Fuzzy will travel with the troupe, nursing the cub about 30 days.

you to see

Freedom can't be given a nation with the guarantee that nation will always have it; someone must take the responsibility of keeping it.

American lawmakers gave us freedom of the press in 1791—but it's American newspapermen who have kept it for us for 165 years.

They have honored this freedom themselves, and kept it honorable in the people's sight. They haven't confused privilege with responsibility. They've set high standards for themselves, and they meet them intelligently, honestly and selflessly.

They report the news as it happens, and explain how it may effect the people. They say what they think is best for all the people, even when it will make them unpopular with some of the people.

They don't run when the going gets rough; they fight for your right to know what's going on. Victor Riesel lost his sight because he wanted you to see. But he didn't quit, and your nation is safer because of him.

No nation is a secure nation unless it's an informed nation. Since freedom of the press is the guardian of all our freedoms, it's good to know the responsibility of preserving it is in good hands.

CHS Kittens Tally In Each Quarter, Defeat Greenfield

Circleville's reserve footballers, the Kittens, scored once in each quarter here Monday to ambush Greenfield's reserves, 27-0.

The Kittens thus topped their first league start in their bid for a third straight South Central Ohio League reserve championship.

Playing without Halfback Walt Arledge, who has been moved up to the varsity, the junior Tigers showed good defensive play and plenty of offensive running ability. In Monday's encounter, Halfback Ray Phifer scored three touchdowns, one on a 58-yard punt return. Fullback Ted Wellington racked up the other TD.

THE KITTENS got their first score midway through the first quarter, the second time they got possession of the ball.

After several end sweeps, including two by Quarterback Tom Greeno, CHS moved the ball to the Quarterback three, where Wellington lugged it over. A pass from Phifer to Wellington added the extra point and Circleville led, 7-0.

A second Kitten touchdown in the second quarter almost failed because of a 15-yard clipping penalty, but on the next play Phifer took a handoff on a cross play and went off tackle for 18 yards and a touchdown. Phifer also scored the extra point, putting the Kittens out in front, 14-0.

After holding Greenfield for downs, Circleville again moved the ball goalward, but time ran out in the first half before they could score. Highlight of that drive was a 32-yard pass play from Tom Greeno to Gerald Allison.

The Kittens' third-quarter touchdown was the result of some heads-up play by Dick Bricher, who was starting his first game on the defensive team. With Circleville kicking off to start the second half, Bricher streaked downfield and fell on the pigskin to give the Kittens possession on the Greenfield 32.

From that point, Circleville drove to the 3, where Phifer again bucked over. Freshman Halfback Larry Hannahs, making his first start, cracked over for the extra point to give the locals a 21-0 lead.

Longest run of the day came in the fourth quarter. Greenfield was forced to punt after being held for downs and Ray Phifer gathered in the punt on the Circleville 42. Moving to his right, Phifer swept down the sidelines and outran all opposition crossing the goal line untouched. Ted Wellington threw two key blocks that set up the run.

THE KITTEN second and third stringers played most of the final quarter, and although they were unable to move the ball on offense, they stopped all Greenfield thrusts. The visitors managed only six first downs during the entire game.

Busso Sparkles As Lightweight

NEW YORK — New York's east side, long the spawning grounds for outstanding lightweights, may have another top contender before long in young Johnny Busso.

An aggressive fighter and a crisp puncher with either hand, the 22-year-old Busso ran his latest victory streak to seven Monday night with a split decision over Cleveland's Tommy Salem in a televised 10-rounder.

Unbeaten in 17 months, the curly-haired New Yorker, a recent bridegroom, now has an imposing 28-3-1 record.

Bill McGowan holds the "iron man in the mask" mark by umpiring 2,541 consecutive American League games in 16½ seasons without missing an inning.

Next game for the Kittens will be Monday, when they travel to Wilmington for another league encounter. They also are scheduled to meet Lancaster Thursday.

Sooners Keep Top Ranking In Grid Poll

CHICAGO — With a string of 31 straight victories behind them and the end hardly in sight, Oklahoma's Sooners still are the nation's No. 1 college football team.

The nation's sports writers voted Oklahoma into the No. 1 spot in the Associated Press poll for the second week of the 1956 season. The Sooners also were the pre-season choice.

The seasonal debut of the Big Ten Conference teams, many rated high in the pre-season picks, had a distinct effect on this week's ratings. But Oklahoma, first on 60 of 97 ballots, still dominated. After whipping North Carolina 36-0 in the season opener, Oklahoma polled a total of 883 points on the basis of 10 for each first place vote, nine for second.

Michigan State, returning to its pre-season second rating on the strength of a 21-7 victory over Stanford, drew 17 first places and 773 points. Then came Georgia Tech, second a week ago, with 662 points. Tech has won two games, coming through a 9-7 squeaker against Southern Methodist last Saturday.

Others in the first ten, which included two new members and in an entirely different order since last week, were Ohio State, Michigan, Mississippi, Pittsburgh, Texas Christian, Tennessee and Southern California.

Redlegs To Burn Series Tickets

CINCINNATI — The last vestige of the Cincinnati Redlegs' hopes for a National League flag will go up in smoke in the next few days.

They are the 35,540 tickets to prospective World Series games at Crosley Field. Redleg officials will burn them as soon as internal revenue men check them.

Charles Morris, Redleg ticket manager, said that the chore of returning applications and checks or money orders for World Series tickets started Monday.

Youngsters Eyed As U.S. Tennis Hope

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. — How about Mike Green and Sam Giammalva against Australia's Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall in the Davis Cup challenge round?

It's not as fantastic as it sounds. The matter was enthusiastically discussed in the West Side Club's upstairs locker rooms Monday after America, using Green and Giammalva as substitutes, completed a 4-1 rout of Italy in the inter-zone final.

Green, a 19-year-old Miami collegian who hasn't quit growing, lost to Italy's top ace, Nicola Pietrangeli, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3. At times he looked like another Jack Kramer.

Giammalva, 23, of Houston, Tex., played some of the finest tennis of his life in subduing giant Orlando Sirola, 12-10, 6-2, 6-3.

The makeup of the U. S. squad, which leaves by air Oct. 30 for Australia, is still indefinite. But it's likely to be made up of veterans Vic Seixas and Ham Richardson, Giammalva, Green and perhaps Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Mike Franks of Los Angeles.

There's a lot of sentiment among tennis' high brass in this country to give the youngsters a shot at the Davis Cup.

But Alrick Man, longtime wheelhorse of the Davis Cup selection committee, had other ideas. "It might be construed as an insult to the Australians," he said. "We have to play our best, no matter who they are—and hope."

The Chicago Cubs have won 100 or more National League games during four of their 16 pennant winning campaigns. They last won 100 games in 1935 under Manager Charlie Grimm.

Ken Sears, former Santa Clara basketball star, averaged 15.5 points a game for the New York knickerbockers against the Philadelphia Warriors during the 1955-56 season.

Flatbush Ready To Play Host To '56 Series

New York Given Nod By Bookies, But Bums Drawing Support, Too

BROOKLYN (AP)—The well-rested New York Yankees ruled a stout 4-1 to 5 choice to dethrone the champion Brooklyn Dodgers in the 1956 World Series which starts Wednesday at Ebbets Field but the National Leaguers had plenty of supporters, too.

Bobby Bragan, who gained stature as a manager even in Pittsburgh's three season-ending losses to Brooklyn, picked the Dodgers to win.

"All they have to do is play the kind of ball they played against us in those last three days," Bragan said, "those guys were simply great."

A major league umpire, who will remain unidentified even though he will not work in the series, thought the Dodgers would win "because they are keyed up right now and they have the momentum."

"I've been reading where the Dodgers are supposed to be tired," he said. "Tired of what? Winning? Capturing the pennant on the last day of the season, and the manner in which they did it, was the best pick-me-up they could have gotten."

Whitey Ford was certain to pitch for the Yankees in the opener but Manager Walter Alton was not expected to name the Brooklyn pitcher until after the workout today.

It was believed that Sal Maglie, Brooklyn's hottest pitcher in the stretch, will get the call. Alton wants Maglie to open things up and late Monday he had just about made up his mind to go with Sal but reserved judgment when the 29-year-old right-hander complained of miseries in his shoulder.

"Maglie will pitch if his arm is all right," Alton said. "If not, it will be Clem Labine."

Maglie admitted he felt tired and also complained of a mild stomach disorder but said he would pitch if Alton wanted him to.

The former Dodger killer's 13-3 record for Brooklyn ranks him second only to Don Newcombe (27-7), who will hurl the second game for Brooklyn against New York's Don Larsen, Sal lost his only previous World Series start against the Yankees, failing to go beyond the fifth inning in the 1951 Yankee-Giant series.

Ford, who hasn't pitched since he failed in his bid for a 20th victory last Wednesday, will have a full week's rest. The southpaw ace appeared undaunted by the task confronting him in a park called a left-handed pitcher's graveyard.

In Whitey's only series appearance there, in 1951, he was knocked out in the first inning.

"For a lefthander to win at Ebbets Field is a challenge," acknowledged Ford. "But I am anxious to prove I can do it."

Ford said he was surprised when his manager, Casey Stengel, sent him to Ebbets Field Sunday to give the Dodgers a look.

"I didn't learn anything I didn't already know," said Ford, who has two series triumphs over the Dodgers, both in Yankee Stadium.

"I still regard Carl Furillo and Jackie Robinson as the two toughest hitters for me, but I still don't think the Dodgers are tougher to beat in Ebbets Field than the Red Sox are in Fenway Park. And I have won there."

Stengel said he planned no lineup changes. Mickey Mantle, though still bothered by a pulled muscle in his left groin, is a certain starter in center field, as is Billy Martin at second base, despite a back ailment. Enos Slaughter has a bad toe but he will be in left field. Bill Skowron at first base, Andy Carey at third, Gil McDougald at shortstop, Hank Bauer in right field, and, of course Yogi Berra, behind the plate, complete the lineup.

Alston, who said Sunday he may play rookie Charlie Neal at second base, switching Junior Gilliam to left field in place of Sandy Amoros, was uncertain about such a move today.

"Right now I'm leaning the other way a bit and may go with Amoros," Alston said. "Sandy has been hot lately and he may continue that way no matter who is pitching."

Amoros never has started a game when a lefthander opposed the Dodgers this year. The left-handed hitting little outfielder batted 11 times against southpaw relief pitchers, getting one hit, a triple.

If Amoros plays, the lineup will be: Junior Gilliam, 2b; Pee Wee Reese, ss; Duke Snider, cf; Jackie Robinson, 3b; Gil Hodges, 1b; Carl Furillo, rf; Amoros, cf; Roy Campanella, c; and the pitcher,

Casey Sighs As He Plots Against foe

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel, the grizzled old manager of the New York Yankees, sighed today at the thought of the bales of wasted effort that went into scouting Milwaukee and Cincinnati as potential World Series rivals.

"I guess I'll have to throw out all that stuff on the Braves and Redlegs," rasped the Yank skipper who leads his team into Ebbets Field for the first game of the '56 classic Wednesday. "I think I'll dig out one of those lineups the Dodgers used last year."

"I guess the only big guy they got who is new to us is Sal Maglie, and he not only knows how to pitch, but he is in a very hot streak right now. We didn't see enough of him when he was with Cleveland in the beginning of the year to get much of a line."

Then he added: "But I think those Dodgers will find that we are at least as good as Pittsburgh."

And with a scowl: "We turned down an invitation to work out in Ebbets Field. Last year we worked out there and lost all three games. The year before we didn't and won one. I know all about the place. Things would have been different if it was some place else."

Turning to the subject of Whitey Ford, who probably will start the opener.

6 Horses Pile Up In Lebanon Event

LEBANON (AP)—The leading reinsman was injured at Lebanon Raceway Monday night in a six-horse pileup in the final race.

Marion Stephens, 37, of Columbus, who has won five of his 15 starts at this meeting, suffered a broken wrist in the accident.

A track spokesman said two horses, Protera and Lizzie, tangled early in the race and four following horses ran into them. The horses were hurt seriously.

The favorite, Rebel Song, won the mile race with a 2:27 circuit. A 25-1 longshot, J. G. Mac, was the only other finisher.

Beaumont Planning Memorial To Babe

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—A memorial to Babe Didrikson Zaharias who died Thursday in Galveston is being planned in Beaumont, her hometown.

Her husband, George Zaharias, told Mayor Jimmie Cokinos Monday he will bring all of the Babe's trophies, pictures and mementoes to Beaumont if the city will provide a suitable place for them.

Cokinos said this would be done.

Cincy Signs Hurler For Class B Club

ELMIRA, N. Y. (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs have signed right-hander William Basal as a pitcher with their Clovis, N. M., team in the class B Southwestern League.

He is 19 years old, 6 feet 2 inches tall and pitched at Elmira Free Academy and at Ithaca College. The announcement of the signing was made Monday.

OSU-Stanford Tilt To Top Next Weekend's Grid Menu

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State's boisterous Bucks, off and running with a 34-7 win over Nebraska, get a chance Saturday to avenge one of last year's pair of losses.

Coach Woody Hayes' stalwarts bang into the Stanford Indians, 6-0 winners over the Ohioans in 1955. And the west coast club may be on the rebound after bowing 21-7 to Michigan State's last-half surge Saturday.

The Stanford-Ohio State game headlines a 22-contest program for Ohio college squads next weekend. Nine of the tilts are against out-of-state opponents.

Cincinnati's Bearcats, who surprised Tulsa 7-6 for their second win since 1954 Saturday, go against College of the Pacific, which held Kansas to a 27-27 deadlock; Bowling Green visits Drake in quest of its fourth straight triumph, and Mississippi Southern invades Dayton in other headlines.

Other contests on the interstate slate are Youngstown at Western Kentucky State, Geneva at John Carroll, Central State at West Virginia State, Waynesburg at Kent State, and Wayne at Case Tech.

records, and all goal lines have been crossed. Bowling Green, with 117 points in three games, leads the scoring column, while Defiance has allowed 127 in three losses for the leakiest defense. Ohio Northern hasn't scored in two tries, while Findlay has the No. 1 defense, having allowed only one touchdown in two games.

Yankees Favored To Defeat Bums

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees today were a solid 7-4-5 choice to win the World Series from the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Bookmakers also quoted the odds as 10-1 against the Yanks sweeping four straight and 15-1 against the Dodgers winning four straight.

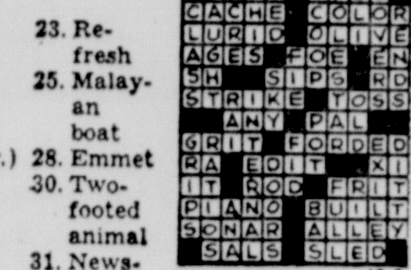

If Sal Maglie pitches against Whitey Ford in the opener, it will be 6-5, pick 'em, if Clem Labine starts for Brooklyn, the Yanks will be favored at 6-5.

The Brooks will be 6-5 favorites if Maglie or Don Newcombe pitches the second game for the Dodgers against either Don Larsen or Johnny Kucks.

Bruno Boin, 6 feet 10, and Don Sunitsch, 5 feet 9, are co-captains of the University of Washington basketball team.

Year Has Seen Both Gains, Setbacks In Freedom Of Press

Federal Units Have Eased News Rulings

Some Progress Seen In Use Of Camera, Other Court Issues

The Freedom of Information Committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors (ASNE) has scored some advances in the past year but has taken some setbacks too in its campaign for better access to federal, state and local government news.

Headed by Herbert Brucker, editor of the editorial page of the Hartford (Conn.) Courant, the committee this Newspaper Week notes among its gains at the federal level:

1. The number of press conferences with cabinet officials has increased.
2. Society officers have attended conferences with Secretary Wilson regarding Defense Department secrecy.
3. Initial secrecy provisions of this year's Operation Alert were modified following protests over last year's policy.
4. The Strategic Air Command has partly amended secrecy enforced on the movement of operational units.

An outstanding setback came in New York State. The appellate court ruled that citizens do not have a right to a transcript of a judge's charge to a jury in a criminal case.

The state legislature refused to pass legislation which would make such access possible.

The Colorado Supreme Court, however, authorized judges to permit the use of cameras in a court room if they think there will be no interference with order and decorum.

In Ohio, the intermediate appellate court held that a public trial of a criminal case is the right of the public as well as the accused.

The Milwaukee City Council abandoned a secret pre-session caucus it had long used to settle controversial matters away from the public eye.

Although not discounting the spot gains scored by their committee, some members point to the work of the House Government Operations Sub-committee headed by Rep. Moss (D-Calif.) as the year's outstanding contribution to freedom of information.

"AMERICANS know more about the impairment of their right to know about the executive departments of their own government than they have ever known before, thanks to the work of the Moss subcommittee," says J. R. Wiggins, executive editor of the Washington Post and Times-Herald, a member of the Freedom of Information Committee and its chairman for three years before Brucker took that job.

"Its initial survey of government information policies, its successive hearings and its report to the committee constitute a confirmation of the warnings which the ASNE Freedom of Information Committee has issued from time to time during the past several years."

Yet, Wiggins says, "It will be difficult if not impossible to recover all the ground lost in the past generation as the result of the security requirements of wars and cold wars and in consequence of the changes and growth in government itself."

Wiggins holds "there must be a new climate in government service, created by a broader faith and confidence in the right judgments of an informed people."

Big Boom In Public Building To Get Under Way In Spring

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The biggest boom ever in construction of state public buildings is expected to get under way next spring.

Dr. C. Earl Albrecht, assistant director of the State Department of Mental Health, made that prediction today as he reviewed progress in preparing plans for nearly a score of new buildings for his department.

"We firmly believe that next spring we will be ready to break ground on the entire 1956 construction program," Dr. Albrecht said. The projects add up to about 15 million dollars, the amount authorized by the State Legislature last Jan. 30. It wasn't until last March that the department was able to get architects started on plans for the buildings.

The department has outlined a 30-million-dollar building schedule for 1957 and 1958 and hopes to start work on some of the 1957 projects early next year.

Biggest project in the entire program is the $11,500,000 reformatory planned to house 1,500 inmates from southern Ohio at Lebanon.

It will be built in three phases. Plans for the $4,400,000 first phase are expected to be ready by Feb. 1 and Dr. Albrecht expects money will be available to begin work soon after that. Plans for the $3,200,000 second phase are expected to be finished by next May.

All the projects are subject to approval of the Division of Capital Planning and the Improvement, which already has approved all but two of the 1956 projects.

The status of some other projects in the 1956 program: Final plans should be ready Nov. 1 for the 100-bed patient building at Apple Creek State Hospital, to

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"We heard something moving around inside there and we stayed up until 1 a. m. just wondering and worrying about it."

Mrs. H. J. Corbett of suburban St. Ann's said that when the sound of a mysterious animal inside their bedroom wall continued Monday, she called the Humane Society.

way to locate the animal was to cut a hole, Mrs. Corbett agreed. They sawed a good-sized hole in the wall but it scampered out of reach.

Four holes and 3½ hours later, a bedraggled squirrel was pulled out.

How come Hudepohl tastes so extra friendly and refreshing when you're extra thirsty? Is it Hudepohl's premium ingredients? Or the special blend of hops? Or the longer old-world aging? They're all important reasons. But even more important is our costlier step in brewing called Process 14-K. For it's this remarkable finishing process that adds the final brilliant touch to Hudepohl's famous flavor.
